

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

About Google Book Search

Google's mission is to organize the world's information and to make it universally accessible and useful. Google Book Search helps readers discover the world's books while helping authors and publishers reach new audiences. TO YOU

IF this small book of varied verse
Should win a smile from you—or worse—
Give Dave McKay the thanks or blame.
The thought behind the gift is his,
My pleasant duty simply is
To wish you well and sign my name.

PROEM

TO A CORRESPONDENT

*MY favorite poet? I'm afraid
You'll sneer at my selection;
And if "a poet's born, not made,"
It may deserve rejection.
'Tis true his puny stature shows
The lines that he is built on Much less heroic are than those That moulded*

Milton.

*I grant you may with Byron's fame
Crush my poor bard's to jelly,
Or dim his rush-light in the flame
That wreathes the name of.*

Shelley.

*Behold him, too, in thought or style
Not even Burns' or Blake's peer—
Poor pigmy piping many a mile In rear of* Shakespeare.

*Yet not for any one of these Great names that loom above him
Would I exchange those qualities
That make me fondly love him.
I love his living heart that sings
And makes my blood flow faster;
I love so many little things
Of which he is the master.
I love his ardent joy of life,
And, faith—as I'm a sinner—
I love his bairns, his home, his wife,
His appetite for dinner.
My favorite poet? I'll rejoice
And tread this old earth gaily
As long as I can hear the voice Of*

T. A. Daly.

PASQUALE PASSES

R OSA Beppi she'sa got Temper dat's so strong an' hot,
Ees no matter w'at you say,
W'en she's start for have her way
She's gon' have eet; you can bat
Evra cent you got on dat!
Theenk she gona mind her Pop?
She ain't even 'fraid of cop!
Even devil no could stop
Rosa Beppi w'en she gat
Foolish theengs eenside her hat.
Dat'sa why her Pop ees scare',
Dat'sa why he growl an' swear
W'en he see her walkin' out
Weeth Pasquale from da Sout'.

Eef, like Beppi, you are com'
From da countra nort' of Rome,
You would know dat man from Sout'
Ain'ta worth for talka 'bout.
Ees no wondra Beppi swear,
Growl an' grumbla lika bear.
W'en da Padre Angelo

Com' an' see heem actin' so,
He's su'prise' an' wanna know.
Beppi tal him. "Ah!" he say,
"I weell talk weeth her to-day,
So she stoppa walkin' out
Weeth Pasquale from da Sout'."

Beppi shak' hees head an' sigh.
He don't theenk eet's use for try,
But da Padre smile an' say:
"I gon' speak weeth her to-day."
Pretta soon, bimeby, he do—
Only say wan word or two—
But so soon as he ees through
You should see da Rosa! My!
Dere's a fire from her eye,
Cutta through you lika knife.
She ees mad, you bat my life!
But no more she's walkin' out
Weeth Pasquale from da Sout'.

Beppi's gladdest man I know
W'en he see how theengsa go.
"My!" he say, "I am su'prise' Church can be so strong an' wise."

"Yes," say Padre Angelo,
"Church ees always wisa so.
All I say to her ees dees:
'Rosa, I am moocha please'
Dat at las' you gotta beau.
He ain't verra good wan, no;
But you need no minda dat
Seence he's best dat you can gat.
So I'm glad for see you out
Weeth Pasquale from da Sout'.' "

If, when spring is in the blood,
('Tis of Irish blood I'm speakin')
All the peace o' bachelorhood
Glad ye'd be to be forsakin'
For the hope o' joy that lies
In a pair o' sparklin' eyes
Wishful to possess ye,
Take your chance o' paradise
An' Heaven bless ye!

If, when spring is in the blood,
Grosser appetites awaken,
An' ye feel a thirst that could,
Maybe, bear a little slakin'—
If to clear your throat o' dust
Mountain-dew will ease ye, just—
Sure, I'd never chide ye.
Take your tipple if ye must,
An' Wisdom guide ye!

If, when spring is in the blood,
Weary on your toil, ye're wishin'
You could wander through the wood

Where the other lads are fishin';
If such sport as ye could know
Where the Irish rivers flow
Waters here can lend ye,
Seize your day of pleasure; go,
An' Luck attend ye!

If, when spring is in the blood,
Play-boy pranks nor eyes o' woman
Stir your heart-strings as they should,
Faith, ye're somethin' less than human!
What ye need's another birth;
Though, indeed, 'twould not be worth
All the trouble to remake ye.
Fit for neither heaven nor earth,
The Divvil take ye!

N A R C I S S U S

ONE night, while yet the wold
Lay dormant with the cold,
I flung the casement wide
And, pausing ere I drew
The outer shutters to,
A lovely thing espied—
A thing of precious worth,
A bit of heaven in earth—
A star in water.
Beneath the rose-bush bare
A rain-pool glassed it. There,
By its own beauty glamored,
It poised above the brink,
Flashed down and seemed to sink
To darkness, self-enamored.

That vision of delight
Oft walked my dreams at night.
Lo ! now 'tis fructified!
This morning when I rose
And scanned my garden close,
What marvel I espied!
A wonder of new birth,

A bit of heaven in earth—
A star in blossom!
Beneath the rose-bush bare
It braves the chilly air,
With beauty's self to bless us;
Spring's herald true! Behold,
With horn of gleaming gold,
The heaven-born Narcissus!

THE BLOSSOMY BARROW

ANTONIO Sarto ees buildin' a wall,
But maybe he nevva gon' feenish at all.

Eet sure won'ta be
Teell flower an' tree
An' all kinda growin' theengs sleep een da Fall.

You see, deesa 'Tonio always ees want'
To leeve on a farm, so he buy wan las' mont'.
I s'posa som' day eet be verra nice place,
But shape dat he find eet een sure ees
"deesgrace;"

Eet's busta so bad he must feexin' eet all,
An' firs' theeng he starta for build ees da
wall.

Mysal' I go outa for see heem wan day,
An' dere I am catcha heem sweatin' away;
He's liftin' beeg stones from all parts of hees land

An' takin' dem up to da wall een hees hand!
I say to heem: "Tony, why don'ta you gat
Som' leetla wheel-barrow for halp you weeth dat?"

"O! com' an' I show you w'at's matter," he said,
An' so we go look at hees tools een da shed.
Dere's fina beeg wheel-barrow dere on da floor,
But w'at do you s'pose? From een under da door
Som' mornin'-glor' vines have creep eento da shed,
An' beautiful flower, all purpla an' red,
Smile out from da vina so pretty an' green
Dat tweest round da wheel an' da sides da machine.
I look at dees Tony an' say to heem: "Wal?"
An' Tony he look back at me an' say: "Hal!
I no can bust up soocha beautiful theeng;
I work weeth my han's eef eet tak' me teell spreeng!"

Antonio Sarto ees buildin' a wall,
But maybe he nevva gon' feenish at all.
Eet sure won'ta be
Teell flower an' tree
An' all kinda growin' theengs sleep een da Fall.

THE WISE MAN O' BEAUFORT

I MIND the day I went away, away from Beaufort town,
With passage money in my purse, but little else beside
These two strong hands I meant one day to lay on Fortune's frown
And twist the fickle face of her till it was smiling wide.
Not there among the Kerry hills could such a task be done,
Not there where freedom's self had slept five hundred years and more,
With each day, from the rising to the setting
o' the sun,
As like the one to follow as the one that went before;
Where young men trod their fathers' heels
contentedly and dreamed,
Nor ever strove for greater wealth or knowledge or renown
Than blessed the master o' the school—John Kearney—who was deemed

The wisest and the richest man in all o'
Beaufort town.

With hopes and fears these many years I've toiled in foreign lands,
And cheek by jowl with Poverty trudged
on behind the plough,
But these two restless hands o' mine, these bare, work-hardened hands
That plucked the frown from Fortune's brow are filled with money now.
And knowledge deeper than the kind that ever scholar read,
Or master ever taught from books in quiet study hall,
I've gathered through the passing years
within this grizzled head,
All ready there for instant use whatever need may call.
Small wonder, then, that I, for wealth and wisdom widely famed,
Would smile a pitying smile betimes at thought o' the renown
Of Master Kearney there at home, that all the neighbors named
The wisest and the richest man in all o'
Beaufort town.

To-day I roam where once was home. Back here in Beaufort town
I walk the old, familiar ways, but, O!
the bitter change;
For out o' tune with everything I wander up and down,
A stranger to the neighbor-folk, whose very speech is strange.
The great wide world I fought until it yielded me its gold
Has put its mark upon me, and it will not let me rest.
I look with sorrow on the hills that never more can hold Contentment for the restless heart that beats within my breast.
And so for all my wealth and fame, for all my presence here,
John Kearney o' the little school, who prates of verb and noun,
And has no care for anything beyond his narrow sphere,
Is still the wisest, richest man in all o'
Beaufort town.

THE WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

EF, mebbe so, you gotta wife
Dat's good as mine to me,
You weell be glad for mak' her life
So happy as can be.

Las' fall Carlotta tak' my han'
An' maka me so happy man;
Wan year to-day she ees my mate,
An' so to-night we celebrate.
You theenk I would forgat da day
Dat pour sooch sunshine on my way?
Ah! no, I gona lat her see
How kinda husban' I can be;
How glad I am she ees so true,
How proud for all da work she do.
An' so for mak' her work for me
More easy dan eet use' for be,
An' show how mooch my heart ees stir'—
I buy a leetla geeft for her.

Carlotta got so pretta hair,
I buy her som'theeng nice for wear—

Eh? W'at? O! no, ees notta hat;
Ees som'theeng mooch more use dan dat.
Eet's leetla pad, so sof' an' theeck
An' stuff' weeth wool, dat she can steeck
On top da hair upon her head,
So lika leetla feathra bed.
Eet sure weell mak' her feels good
W'en she ees carry loada wood;
An' mebbe so eet halp her, too,
For carry more dan now she do.
So mooch weeth love my heart ees stir'
I buy dees leetla geeft for her.

Eef, mebbe so, you gotta wife
Dat's good as mine to me,
You, too, would try for mak' her life
So happy as can be.

O H! youse kin talk erbout de style
Mis' Patti useter fling,
An' how she'd make youse cry or smile
To hear de songs she'd sing.
She may be all de highbrows claim,
She may be great fur fair,
But Music is an open game;
It ain't no solitaire.
An' dough she played to one night stan's
W'at panned out t'ousands clear,
She never got no round o' han's
As honest an' sincere
As shakes our Social's clubroom w'en
We pass de woid along:
" 'Sh! Mister Mackin's lady frien'
Is goin' ter sing a song."

My lady frien'! Her steady gent!
I sit down be her side,
A-playin' her accomp'niment
An' boinin' up wit' pride.

Me concertina seems ter know
 De woik it's got ter do;
No udder time de notes would flow
 So musical an' true.
An' den she starts ter sing. O, boys!
 I would'n' miss a note
Uv all de melted tears an' joys
 W'at ripples frum 'er t'roat.
An' foist me heart seems choked an' den
 It's jumpin' good an' strong
W'en Kitty Kane, me lady frien',
 Obliges wit' a song.

"De songs My Mammy Sang ter Me," Dat dere's my favoryte;
A pooty song it is, an' she
 Kin sing it outer sight.
Foist off she goes a-warblin' t'rough
 De laughin', jinglin' rhyme,
An' den, no matter w'at youse do,
 Youse can't help pattin' time.
Den suddint comes de solemn part—
 Her sweet voice trimbles so,
It builds an ice house 'roun' yer heart
 An' tear-tanks overflow.

An' den yer back to eart' agen,
A-cheerin' loud an' long,
W'en Kitty Kane, me lady frien',
Obliges wit' a song.

O! Kitty Kane, how long! how long!
I'll on'y be content
W'en youse have sung yer weddin' song
Ter my accomp' himent.

THE LAGGARD IN LOVE

O H! Giuseppe da barber ees crazy weeth spreeng!
He's no good een da daytimes for doin' a theeng
But to theenk of da night an da tunes he weell seeng.
Alla time w'en som' customer gat een hees chair,
He's so slow weeth da shave an' weeth cuttin'
da hair,
Dat hees boss ain't do notheeng but grumble an' swear.
But Giuseppe no care
For wan blessa blame theeng,
But to play mandolina
Where som' signorina
Weell listen at night to da love-song he seeng.
Com' Giuseppe da barber last nighta too late
To da house of da Rosa an' stan' by da gate,
An he seeng like Il Gatto dat cry for hees mate.

Soocha playnta love-music, sooch cooin',
sooch sighs,
Soocha sounds from da heart—an' sooch
looka su'prise
W'en he leeft hees face up an' stare eento
my eyes
Lookin' down from da wall!
Ah! Giuseppe, your call
Should be starta more earla
For catcha my girla,
For w'en da spreeng's here I no workin'
at all!

LOOK at ould Mag Carmody an' Anastasia Moore, Sittin' in the corner wid their elbows on their knees;
Wid their bony backs bent over an' their worn hands clasped before,
An' the two white heads together like a pair o' buzzin' bees.
Wasps, more like, you'd call them, for the talk your fancy hears Passin' now between them wid a sting in every word,
Talk, ye think, would have the neighbors
tinglin' at the ears,
Wid the heat of anger an' resentment if they heard.
So, if you'd your way,
Faith, belike, you'd say:
"Rise up, whisp'rin' gossips, rise!
L'ave your scandals an' your lies;
Time enough for bitterness when wintry days befall.

But the year is at the spring,
Joy an' kindness are a-wing;
Even wasps are Mayin' now upon the sunny
wall."

Look upon the whisperers again—an' hang yer head;

Look upon them kindly, for not long you'll know their likes.

These are of the troublous days whose whisperin' was bred

By the roar o' tyrant guns an' clash o' patriot pikes.

Innocent an' simple is the talk that now they make,

Chat of olden buried things, for thoughts of age are long.

They've no need to whisper, still a habit's hard to break,

An' wid two to nurse the same, sure they keep it strong.

So, if you'd be kind,

Thus you'll speak your mind:

"Rise up, dear ould women, rise!

Here you're under friendly skies;

Come an' take your fill o' talk an' share the genial sun.

Here the year is at the spring,
Joy and kindness are a-wing;
Come, forget the bitterness o' days that's dead an' done.

THE TWO BLIND MEN

GOOD avenin' to ye, Father; will ye be to bide a minyit?

'Tis a week o' weeks since ye was here before.

There' manny feet goes up the sthreet, an'
once yer own was in it—

Last night I heard yer footsteps pass me door.

Och! musha, Father, who am I to stop a soggarth passin' by
To wan that needs him more?

Aye! "Conor o' the Brooms." I know; he bragged of it this mornin',
Wid a dale o' windy wurrds, "sez I,"
"sez he."

Ye may go bail he'd make the tale, wid fanciful adornin',
As wonderful as anny tale could be.

Sure, Father, 'tis mesel' that's glad ye wint to cheer yon poor ould lad,
That's blinder far nor me.

O, yes, there is a differ, though, I'm free to be admittin',

Ways, the two of us is blind as anny stone.
But times, ye see, Con sez to me: "I feel so blind jist sittin'

Wid no wan nigh, jist sittin' by me lone."
They're blind indeed, poor souls, that need another's mind to see and read
What thoughts are in their own.

So ye needn't think I'm jealous of a lad like poor ould Conor,

Fur me own mind's stored wid company galore.

An' 'tis little I'll be carin'—though I thank ye fur the honor—

If ye're passin' by or stoppin' at me door.
Sure, ye're welcome, Father Mack, but I'd nivver call ye back
From wan that needs ye more.

D R E A M I N G

I HATE to read of millionaires,
Because such reading seems
To hypnotize me utterly
 And start me dreaming dreams.
How many times I've figured out
 What I'd be apt to do
If I were in that fellow's place
 And had a million, too.
Of course, I'd use my fortune well;
 More sensibly than he,
For I'd give ten per cent. at least
 To worthy charity.
Another ten per cent. would go
 To help along a few
Of my deserving relatives
 Whose bills are overdue.
And then my duty to the church;
 Of course, a goodly share—
Say, twenty-five per cent. or so—
 Would be devoted there.
I'd give this latter quietly,
 Insisting that my name

Must be withheld, that none might know
Whence this donation came.
I'd only let the pastor know—
He'd have to know, you see—
Because my name upon the check
Would show it was from me.
Another twenty-five per cent.
Would do myself and wife;
The income we'd derive from that
Would keep us both for life.
Then, after that—well, after that
I dream away and plan
To spend still other ten per cents.
To help my fellow-man.
And finally my dreaming gets
A bit confused, and then
I take a tumble and my feet
Touch solid earth again;
And common sense assures me, as
It stops me with a jerk,
I've wasted time enough to do
A dollar's worth of work.

Som'theeng you nevva heard?

O, yes, "a-a-r-d-v-a-r-k;"
Dat's how ees spal da word.
Eet ees een book, da wisa book I read
Dat tal all theengs you want.
Ees call' "da 'Mericana Cyclopaed;"
I buy we wan las' mont'.
An' lasta week I learn da firsta page;
Nex' week I learna two.
You bat my life, w'en I am good old age
I gon' know more dan you.
I am su'prise' how mooch you don'ta know;
You are not smart, Signor.
Ah, wal, good-bye! Com' back een week

C AW! caw! caw!
When last we heard their cry,
These prophesying crows,
They flecked a leaden sky,
South-blown before the snows;
And down the whistling wind
Came winter's woes behind
Their caw! caw! caw!
Ne'er swelled a feathered throat
With half so sad a note.

Caw! caw! caw!
The South hath blown them back.
With many a flashing wing
The blue's rain-sweetened track
Is augural of spring;
Again from out the sky
Floats down the raucous cry
Of caw! caw! caw!
But where's the feathered throat
That hath a gladder note?

T H E G I F T O' T H E G A B

O CH! there was ne'er such a quare twisted crayture
As Shaemus McNabb.
Irish in name an' by birth, but by nature
A surly ould crab.
"Silence is goolden," sez he, "an' 'twill lessen
Most of our throubles here." Och! 'tis disthressin', the Way he's malignin' that chief Irish blessin'—
the Gift o' the gab!

"Silence!" sez he. An' ye ralely can't blame us,
Who're proud o' the gab,
If, now an' then, we go afther this Shaemus
An' give him a jab.
"What then," sez I, "would we win Irish freedom wid?
Chasin' the British out, what would ye speed 'em wid?

Dried Irish tongues would ye fatten an' feed
'em wid,
Shaemus McNabb?"

"Silence!" he roars; "will ye never be quiet?
Ye blather an' blab,
Stirrin' the countrry to murther an' riot
Wid gift o' the gab!"
So will he argue by night an' by day wid you,
Roarin' an' fightin' to have the last say wid you.
"Silence!" sez he—Och! the Divvil fly 'way
wid you,
Shaemus McNabb!

THE OULD LAD O' THE BELLS

HARK!

The bell o' St. Mark,

How it moithers the air!

Sure, I can't un'erstand

All the bells in this land—

I declare

But it's quare—

Whin the bells o'er the sea are so joyous an' grand.

Now, whin I was a boy,

By the town o' Clonmel,

I drank nothin' but joy

From the rim of a bell.

Was it rung for two wed,

Was it summons to prayer,

Was it tolled fo¹ wan dead,

Still the music was there;

Every hillside an' glen,

Every hollow an' glade

Rang agen an' agen
Wid the echoes it made.
An' the good folk that trod
To the call o' the bell
Gave a "Glory to God!"
For whatever befell.
Don't I mind—bless me soul!
Me a wee curly head—
How we heard the bells toll
Whin O'Connell was dead?
I can mind that same day,
Aye! I see mesel' well
As I stopped in me play
At the sound o' the bell;
An' I hold in me ear
All its music that's past,
Tho' it's sixty-odd year
Since I heard it the last.
For I can't live it down,
An' I hear it ring yet
O'er the bells o' this town,
Wid their tears an' regret—

Hark!
The bell o' St. Mark,
How it moithers the air!

Sure, it ought to be gay,
'Tis a weddin', they say—

I declare
But it's quare—

An' the bells o'er the sea are so joyous alway.

THE KNOWIN' NICOD
DEMUS

MOST aggrevatin' critter wuz old Nicodemus Brown;

He knowed it all an' bound to have his say.
Thar wuzn't no theayter-play thet ever come to town

But Brown he'd git to see it night or day.
He'd make a p'int to git his seat 'fore any o'
the rest,

An when the curtain riz upon the show
An' all the actors sot to work, he'd do his level best

To figger how the plot wuz goin' to go.
An' when the most excitin' part of all wuz gittin' near,
An' folks wuz settin' narvous an'
perplexed,
Old Brown he'd whisper loud enough fur
every one to hear:
"I'll bet ye I kin tell whut's comin' next."

Thar wuzn't any curin' him. He'd do the same in church,

Or anywherees he happened fur to be;
Fur, like a dern poll-parrot hoppin' round
upon its perch,
He'd squawk to all his critics: "Talk is free!"
But when the Typhoi' wuz around last
August wuz a year,
It tackled onto Nick an' tuck him down;
An' then he got religion, fur he tho't his end wuz near,
An', sure enough, thet wuz the end o'
Brown.
His folks wuz gethered by his bed, an' jest
afore he died,
While Deacon Jones wuz readin' of a text,
The sick man smiled, an', "Waal, I'm done with this here life," he sighed;

THE YOUNG WIDOWER

“YOU do not weep,” the childless woman said.

The babe stirred in his arms; he shook his head:

“I have outworn my grieving.
Better than tears I pledge my sainted dead—
Devotion to the living.”

“A costly life. Your wife you would prefer——”

“Have done! I would prefer,” he said,
“for her

A truer sympathizer
Than you, who often boasted that you were Unnaturally wiser.”

“I came to sympathize, and yet it’s true——”

“Ah! yes,” he said, “and when my grief was new

Your words did come to taunt me.
But I have need of nothing now from you—
You cannot cheer or daunt me.”

“Yet I may mourn for Womanhood——”

He said:

“Aye! mourn for that—to-night, beside your bed,

For Womanhood be grieving—

Not Womanhood triumphant in the dead,
But throttled in the living.”

THE END O' THE DAY

HERE'S the end o' the day,
An' this weary ould planet
Turns again to the gray,
Dewy dusk that began it.
An' meself that's no more
Nor a midge or a flea
Or a sand o' the shore,
Who'd be thinkin' o' me
At the end o' the day?

Here's the end o' the day,
An' it's little I'm winnin'
Wid my toilin' away
Since the same was beginnin';
But for all I'm so small,
Trudgin' on by my lone,
If no evil befall
I've a world o' my own
At the end o' the day.

Here's the end o' the day,
An' the stars, growin' bolder,
Now the sun is away,
Peep above the hill's shoulder;

An' 'tis they that can see
That the dusty boreen
Is a king's road for me
To my castle an' queen,
At the end o' the day.

CH! there's devil a parish at all
Like this one o' St. Paul.
Here the winter begins wid the fall
An' it sticks to the middle o' May.
Streets an' houses an' people are gray,
An' the night lends its hue to the day;
For the blessed sun's light hangs like fog on the walls
Where a man does be livin' his lone in St.
Paul's.

Faith, 'tis odd that the same parish plan
Gave so much to St. Ann.
There's one parish that's fit for a man
Wid a hunger for warmth an' for light!
'Tis a comfort to find, day an' night,
Streets an' houses an' people so bright;
For there's summer-warm hearts an' there's kind, open han's,
An' a girl wid a face like a rose, in St. Ann's.

In a parish just over the line,
Called St. John the Divine,
There's a cozy new cot, an' it's mine!
Oh! 'tis I will have throuble to hide
From my face all the joy an' the pride
That my heart will be feelin' inside,
When next Sunday at Mass they'll be readin'
the banns
For meself o' St. Paul's and Herself o' St.
Ann's.

THE ITALIAN WIND

I DO not like da ween' dat blows
Along da ceety street.
Eet breengs a message to da nose
Dat ees not always sweet.
An', too, eet brags, dees ceety ween',
How reech som' people are—
Dat's w'en eet's drunk with gasolene
From passin' motor-car.
Eet ees no wondra I am sad
For hear eet blow like dat
An' speak of theengs I nevva had An' nevva gona gat.

So, here I'm sad; but mebbe so
I weell be happy yat.
Dere ees een countra-place I know
A farm dat I can gat.
An' soon as I can finda man
Dat like dees ceety street
An' buy from me dees leetla stan',
I gona jomp at eet.

Ah! den w'en I am plant da leek
An' garlic dere, you see,
Dose countra ween's dey sure weell speak
Italian to me!

L'UNIVERSALE NOTA

DEES earth, so solid to our feet,
Ees ours dat walk about on eet;
Yet men of manny deef'rent land
 Speak manny deef'rent way,
An' I can only ondrastand
 W'at my own peopla say.

Da sea, dat ees all lands baytween,
Not wan race for eets own can ween;
Yet frands of mine an' your frands, too,
 Mak' sooch sad calling from da sea,
Dey speak wan langwadge now to you
 An' wan same tongue to me.

THE VESTIBULE

EVERY mansion, every cot,
Be it great or small,
Hath a room, a tiny spot,
Seldom praised at all.
Bards have sung of "marble halls,"
"Banquet rooms" and "painted walls,"
And of "gardens cool."
Not to these our thoughts belong;
We would make a little song
Of "The Vestibule."

Unromantic little place,
Narrow, close and bare?
Not if we in fancy trace
All that happens there:
Welcome to the honored guest,
Little lips to mother's pressed
Ere they start for school,
Lingering lovers' last good-night—
Lots of room for Fancy's flight
In the vestibule!

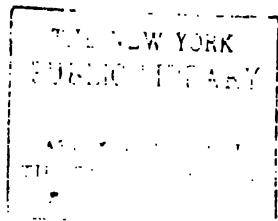

There shall Fancy contemplate
Still a greater bliss:

When the good wife speeds her mate
With a morning kiss.
He who will not, when he may,
With this blessing start the day,
Is a knave or fool.
Many cares are overthrown,
Many battles fought and won
From the vestibule!

“O H! ees eet true—you tal me so—Da spreeng would com’ eef you would go
An’ play for eet?” say leetla Joe.

Den bigga Joe, da music-man,
He pat da leetla skeenny han’
An’ “sure!” he say; “I go nex’ week.
You see, my street-pian’ ees seeck,
So lika you. All weentra long
Eet was too cold for maka song;
But now I theenk a leetla beet
Your mediceene gon’ feexin’ eet?”
Joe smile, an’ so da leetla boy
Smile, too, an’ clap hees han’s for joy;
An’ all dat week he count da day
Teell time hees Pop shall go an’ play.
So com’ da day at las’, an’ dough
Steell een da streets ees ice an’ snow,
Beeg Joe mus’ do dees theeng for pleass
Dat leetla boy, aldough he freeze.

Den home agen dat night he say:
"I ain't quite do da treeck to-day;
You see, da spreeng mus' hear me play,
An' here een ogly ceety street
I no gat verra close to eet;
I musta go more far away."
So passa mebbe two, three day
An' notheeng com'. Wan night, bimeby,
Da leetla boy baygeen to cry,
So Joe say: "Wait a leetla beet
An' sure I weell be catchin' eet."
Nex' night he com' an' cry: "Hallo!
Here's granda news for leetla Joe.
To-day—O! verra, verra close—
I see da spreeng! An' w'at you s'pose?
Eet's justa leetla laughin' breeze
Dat jomp about among da trees!
An', O! eet dance so bright an' gay
So soon as eet ees hear me play;
I sure I catch eet soon som' day."

Bimeby, wan night, w'en Joe gat home,
He wheespra: "Sh! da spreeng ees com'!
Don't maka noise or you weell scare;
Eet's een da alley downa-stair!"

You see, to-day w'en I am play
Out een da countra, far away,
Agen ees com' dat leetla breeze.
Eet keess da buds upon da trees,
An' tease da brook an' hop around
An' coax da flowers from da ground.
An' pretta soon so close I gat
I see eet keess a violat.
Den—presto! eet ees een my hat!
So here, O! leetla Joe, I breeng
For you, for you, da gladda spreeng!
'Sh! keepa steell, or you weell scare;
Eet's een da alley downa-stair."
"O! pleass," ees say da leetla boy,
An' he ees clap hees han's for joy,
"O! lat eet com' an' play weeth me."
Beeg Joe say: "No, not yat. You see,
To breeng eenside would nevva do;
Dat mak' eet seeck, more seeck dan you.
But, leetla Joe, you geeve eet time
An' pretta soon dat breeze weell climb
Outside upon your weendow-seell,
Eef you be good an' keepa steell."

Wan morna soon w'en Joe gat up
Da worl' ees lika wina-cup,

So reech an' sweet da air. An' so
He run an' cry to leetla Joe:
"Da spreeng! See now da leetla breeze Ees at your weendow? Here eet ees!"
So den he leeft da window wide
An' lat da warma breeze eenside.
Da leetla boy he ope' hees mout'
An' breathe eet een an' breathe eet out,
An' laugh to feel eet een hees hair,
On han's an' face an' evrawhere.
"O! my, how sweet!" say bigga Joe.
"Com', sneeff eet een your nosa—so!—
Dat smal ees steeckin' to eet yat
From where eet keess da violat.
Ah! leetla Joe, w'at weell you do
For me dat catch da spreeng for you?"

Oh, my! sooch keesses warm an' long!
Sooch huggin', too, so glad, so strong!
You nevva see a leetla boy
Dat ees so crazy-wild weeth joy.
"Aha! deed I no tal you so,
Dat spreeng would com' so soon you go
An' play for eet?" say leetla Joe.

THEY say the girls they're raisin' here
Has very takin' ways.

Mayhap 'tis true, but, dear, O! dear,
'Tis not their likes I'd praise.

There's not a wan of all the lot
I've ever chanced to see—

Not wan o' them—that ever got
A heart-throb out o' me.

An', sure, I'm not so hard to p'lease;
'Tis I that used to know
A score o' maids deservin' praise—
But that was long ago.

Although the times an' styles may change,
A maid is still a maid;
But here she looks an' acts so strange,
She's different, I'm afraid.

Mayhap the climate here's to blame
For all the faults I see;
At anny rate, they're not the same
As maidens used to be.

But Irish maids! Och, over there
The girls I used to know
Were always sweet an' true an' fair—
Was that so long ago?

I s'pose you know how moocha joy
Ees feell da heart of leetla boy,
W'en beeg parade ees passa by,
Eef he can climb da pole so high;
Or find on window-seell a seat
Where he can see da whola street,
An' watch da soldiers marcha 'way
An' hear da sweeta music play.
Ah! lady, eef dees joy you know,
You would no frown upon me so.
For, like da boy dat climb da pole,
From deep eensida me my soul—
My hongry, starva soul—ees rise
Onteell eet looka from my eyes
At all dat com' so sweet an' fair
W'en now da Spreeng ees een da air;
At greena grass, at buddin' trees
Dat wave deir branches een da breeze,

At leetla birds dat hop an' seeng
Baycause dey are so glad for Spreeng—
An' you dat look so pure, so sweet,
O! lady, you are part of eet!

So, 'scusa, lady, 'scusa, pleass',
For dat I stop an' stare;
I no can halpa do like dees
W'en Spreeng ees een da air.

I WOKE at dawn and heard the rain
And far-off snarls of thunder.
I closed my eyes that sleep again
Might draw my senses under;
And soon, in poppied warmth enfurled,
I lost in sweet forgetting
The clamors of the stirring world,
Its labors and its fretting.
As from the bud
The chill-checked flood
Of sap goes backward creeping,
So falls this sense
Of indolence
When April skies are weeping.

I woke in sunlight and arose.
The joyful birds were chanting;
A young girl in the neighboring close
Was busy at her planting.
I knew, as something erst unknown,
The blessed charm of labor;
I loved—ah! not myself alone—
I yearned to love my neighbor.

As from the trees
The sun and breeze
Their young leaves are beguiling,
So from the heart
Doth new life start
When April skies are smiling.

THE FALLEN TREE

HERE was a tree in Wister Wood
Last April's livery wore
Of emerald leaf and crimson bud,
But it is there no more.

There, earliest, on twig and bough,
I marked the spring's advance;
Of all who note its absence now
I only care, perchance.

Yet 'tis enough. For ne'er, for me,
Shall any spring come in
But all its trees shall lovelier be Because this one hath been.

So may it be with me, whose blood
Stirs ever when the spring
Calls out to me from Wister Wood
And bids me rise and sing.

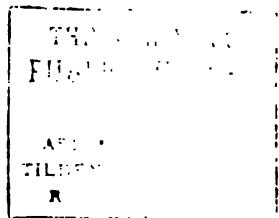

Enough for me, if when I've gone
The way of man and tree,
Some spring be made more sweet for one,
Through kindly thought of me.

Y OU know my Aunta Rosa? No?
I weesha dat you could;
She w'at you call "da leevin' saint,"
 Baycause she ees so good.
She got so greata, stronga faith,
 She don'ta nevva care
For doin' anytheeng at all
 But justa say her prayer.
She justa pray, an' pray, an' pray,
 An' work so hard at dat,
You theenk she would be gattin' theen
 Eenstead for gat so fat.
O! my, she gat so verra fat,
 Da doctor ees so scare',
He com' wan day to her an' say:
 "You mak' too moocha prayer;
Ees better do som' udder work
 An' tak' som' exercise."
My Aunta Rosa shak' her head
 An' justa leeft her eyes,

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN

THE wood beyond the station thrills
With glamor of the May;
The thrush his matin music trills,
A-swing upon his spray,
And many things of beauty smile
And call me out to play,
Crying: "Tarry, O! tarry,
For this one day."
But Duty hath no pity!
I am doomed to the city,
And I hear the snorting demon that will carry me away.

How slowly plods the little boy
Upon the road to school.
He yearns to taste a truant joy
Where woodland depths are cool.
He lifts his guilty eyes to mine;
I bid him run and play!
Crying: "Hookey! Play hookey,
For this one day!"

But, O! for me the pity!
I am doomed to the city,
And I hear the snorting demon that will carry me away.

THE SCOUTS OF SPRING

THE child at the window turned away
With a parting glance at the leaden skies,
And the look in the depths of his wistful eyes
Was hopeless and dull as they.
So came the night down, cold and gray,
When the hidden sun had set. * * *

Cold as the ashes of yesterday
The morning breaks, and yet—
The scouts of Spring were abroad in the night.
I heard them riding the rain.
I knew the touch of their fingers light,
As they swerved aside in their airy flight
And tapped at the window-pane.
They swarmed like bees in the outer gloom;
I heard them whispering there,
And I sensed them momently in the room
When their breathing tinged with faint perfume

The slumber-heavy air.
So hither and yon they danced and leapt;
And over one pillow they softly crept
 And called to the wild,
 Young heart of the child,
 Till the little limbs stirred, and the thin lips smiled
And he laughed aloud as he slept.
But there came a change at the wane of the night,
 And down from the hill,
 Where they'd long lain still,
The winds of Winter rode forth in their might.

The Spring's outriders broke in flight,
 And up from the east rose the morning
 gray,
 Cold as the ashes of yesterday.

* * * * *

"Wake!" cried the child beside my bed.
"Come to the beechwood, Sleepyhead!
 Wonders await you there. See here,
 Snowdrops! sweetest and first of the year;
Wake! for the Spring is come," he said.
Gray is the morning, gray and cold;

Ah! but the depths of his shining eyes,
Blue as the heart of the violet, hold
Joy and the glory of summer skies,
And their secrets manifold.

For tal her how I feel;
Not even words Italian
For tal her how I feel.

O H! ye wealthy folk, blessed with a heaped-over measure
Of bodily comforts, of treasure and gold,
If your souls have been stirred for one moment with pleasure

By the catches I've sung or the jests I have told,

O! I pray ye, take heed of What most I'm in need of
And loosen the strings of the purses ye hold.

Give the best that ye have
For the best that I gave.

For the gay Merry-Andrew you've seen me to-day

O! remember me, pray,
With your gold.

O! ye poor of God, blessed with warm hearts ever throbbing
With love for a fellow-man burdened with cares,

If ye sense the soul-hunger, the sorrowful sobbing,

In his merriest jests, in his liveliest airs,

Ye will know and take heed of

What most he's in need of,

Both here and hereafter, wherever he fares.

For the sorrow he's known

That is like to your own,

When with tears of sweet pity your lashes are dim,

Have remembrance of him

In your prayers.

I 'M a thing they call a "stevydore"—
Though some has called me worse—
An' I'm slavin' here along the shore
To fill a skinny purse;
For it's little that the wages are,
For all the countrhy's free,
An' my hopes o' fortune still are far
As heaven is from me.
Still, though far away it seems,
There's a heaven in me dreams—
Blessid paradise I had an' lost, but hope again to win—
An' it calls me from the breeze
That blows in acrost the seas
Whin a ship comes in.

"Sure, it's hell to be a stevydore,"
The lads beside me say;
But it's purgatory an' no more,
Since some may win away.
An' it's not forever that I'll slave
Within a stuffy hold,

For the pennies that I make an' save
Will turn at last to gold.
O! the heaven that I knew,
Risin' green above the blue—Blessid paradise I had an' lost an' dreamed so much about—
'Tis mesel' wid joy will see
On a day that's soon to be Whin a ship goes out.

APRIL, Irish through and through,
Here's my caubeen off to you!
Look you! now my head is bare,
Drop your tears upon my hair.
Weep your fill upon me, then
Warm me with your sun again.
Here's my heart. O! make its strings
Populous with linnets' wings.
So your holy birds are there
Not a ha'porth do I care;
Mute with sorrow, wild with glee,
So they make their home in me.

April,
Dead, forgotten days
Tremble in your dim blue haze;
All the glories of the race
Flicker on your mobile face.
Heroes panoplied for fight
Glimmer in your golden light;

Martyrs, sanctified by pain,
Murmur in your silver rain.
All your smiles and all your tears
Voicing now our hopes and fears,
April, Irish through and through,
Here's my caubeen off to you!

A WORLD of sodden leaves and gaunt-limbed trees

That stand as in a dream. Set in the skies
The moon, like embers of a watch-fire, lies Half-quenched by mists breathed up from restless seas;

And like a lion troubled in its sleep,

The wind, high-cradled in the piney hills,
By fits and starts with fretful moaning thrills

The echoing air, and darkness rules the steep.

And yet I know the sun will soon have kist
With lip of fire the sky, so leaden-browed Behind the silvern gossamer of mist.

I know the Easter sun that gilds the cloud Shall kiss God's robes where last it touched His shroud,
And all my soul is eloquent of Christ.

THE BUTT O' THE LOAFERS

OH! they needn't be so sly,
All them lads when I pass by,
Wid their winkin' o' the eye
An' their jokin' an' all that.
Sure, I'm wise enough to see
That the cause of all their glee
Is the ancient cut o' me
An' me ould high hat.

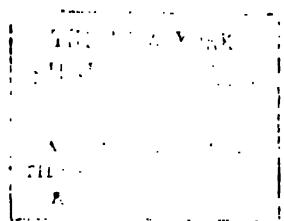

Yerra! boys will have their play,
So I've not a word to say—
'Tis mesel' that wanst was gay
As the gayest wan o' you;
An' there wasn't manny men
That'd care to joke me then,
When me blood was warm an' when
This ould hat was new.

It was wid me an' me bride
When the blessid knot was tied,
An' it follied, when she died,
Where they soon will lay me, too.

It has served me all these years,
Shared me pleasures and me tears—
As it's sharin' now the jeers
O' the likes o' you!

Now, ould hat, we're worn an' sick,
But 'tis joy to think, avic,
That you never held a brick—
An' there's some that can't say that!
So they needn't be so sly
Wid their winkin' o' the eye
When they see us passin' by,
You an' me, ould hat!

A BALLADE OF BRIDES

FOR brides who grace these passing days,
The poets lyric garlands twine;
For them the twittering song of praise
Resounds with many a fulsome line.
And unproved worth, as half divine,
Is glorified in tinkling tunes.
But worthier dames shall bless our wine—
We'll toast the brides of other Junes !

What though a thoughtless public pays
Its homage at young Beauty's shrine,
And wreathes smooth brows with orange sprays,
With roses and with eglantine,
Youth's cheeks that glow and eyes that shine
Are not the most enduring boons.
O ! we who've seen such things decline,
We'll toast the brides of other Junes !

Though flowery wreaths and poets' lays
To grace the new-made bride combine,
O ! let us rather twine the bays

For tried and true ones, thine and mine,
Who share whate'er the fates design
To bless or blight our nights and noons;
Good comrades still through rain or shine—
We'll toast the brides of other Junes!

L'ENVOI

Old Friend! whose bride of Auld Lang Syne
Still fills thy life with honeymoons,
Thy glass to mine, my glass to thine—
We'll toast the brides of other Junes!

THE MAN'S THE MAN

“THE man's the man!” my Barney says—

An' Barney's newly married—
“He's the wan that knows the ways
The burdens should be carried.

Let the woman wear the grace
An' pleasin' pranks o' beauty,
Yet be mindful of her place

An' of her wifely duty;
By the crown within my hat,
The chief of all our riches,
I'll be king o' this an' that;

An' sure I'll wear the breeches;
Yes, an' need be, I can teach
The ‘Spanish way’ o' walkin'!”
There's my Barney's manful speech—
I listen to him talkin'.

“The man's the man!” my Barney says,
An', faith, my thoughts are carried
Back to well-remembered days
When I was newly married;

An' there's wan that's lookin' down
Upon this house this minute,
Knows who was it wore the crown
The whiles herself was in it.
Dull I was, but plain as day
'Tis now I'm seein' through it
How she let me have her way,
An' sure I never knew it;
Puffed wid pride as I could be
An' struttin' 'round an' squawkin',
"Man's the man!" sez I, an' she—
She listened to me talkin'.

WHAT THE FLAG SINGS

MY People! ye who honor me,
Upon this day that made ye free,
And for your badge of liberty
 On high have set me,
Hear what my breeze-tossed ripples say,
Ere with the passing of this day
I once again am put away
 And ye forget me:

“In war begot, by war imbrued
Baptismally with patriot blood,
Triumphant, steadfast still, through good
 And evil omen,
I’ve watched victorious Peace alight
Upon the arms of Truth and Right,
Which nevermore shall fear the might
 Of foreign foemen.

“But, O! my people, help me preach
Our gospel now, that we may teach
Newcomers here of alien speech
 To know and love me.
Teach that the cause for which I stand,

The liberty of this fair land,
Will tolerate no Anarch brand
To float above me.

“Aye! our own native faults lay bare!
Point out the specious statesman’s snare,
Whose tongue would hide with shout and prayer

His heart’s sedition;
Who lifts to me his crafty eyes
And breathes abroad his soulful sighs,
Which not from love of me arise,
But low ambition.

“O! teach and learn! And when the sky
This day’s departing sunbeams dye,
And from the staff whereon I fly

At last ye take me,
Remember what ye owe to me;
I’m but your badge of liberty,
And I no greater thing can be
Than your deeds make me!”

L IKE a matron grown jaded—
Fat, forty and fair—
In a nook cool and shaded,
Who nods in her chair;
Then, sudden, aware
Of the eyes of the masses,
Feigns a wide-awake air,
Summer smiles as she passes.

All the charms she paraded
In Junetime so rare,
When new roses were braided
And twined in her hair,
No longer are there.
All her gold but worn brass is,
But, still debonair,
Summer smiles as she passes.

That her beauty is faded
Beyond all repair,
All the pools where she waded—
Her mirrors—declare.

Brown limbs that are bare
Every woodland pool glasses;
But what does she care?
Summer smiles as she passes.

ENVOY

Come, then, Autumn! and dare
To be brave as this lass is,
When the like fate you share—
Summer smiles as she passes.

FROM the glens an' airy peaks
Of McGillicuddy's Reeks,

Shawn Bhui O'Connor
Draws the raw delights o' life.
Snare an' gun an' huntin'-knife
Are his all, for ne'er a wife
Wears his name upon her.

Just his native hills alone
An' his wild sweet will can own
Shawn Bhui O'Connor.

Save for powder an' for shot,
Village streets would know him not—
Shawn Bhui O'Connor.

But the priest o' Ballymore
Often finds beside his door
Tribute for his frugal store,
Knowing well the donor;
An' for gift o' grouse an' hare
Oft repays with kindly prayer
Shawn Bhui O'Connor.

Mighty hunter, yet a child,
Shaggy nurslin' o' the wild—

Shawn Bhui O'Connor.

Relic o' the primal man
Ere the Saxon race began;
Erin's lord an' sacristan
 Of her virgin honor,
May the peace o' God's free air
Keep you ever in its care,
Shawn Bhui O'Connor!

ARTFUL YOUNG BARNEY
KEHOE

WILL ye be for the Gap o' Dunloe,
I dunno?
O! I'm glad o' that same!
All the tourists think shame
To be missin' the Gap o' Dunloe—
They do so.
Now, then, whishper! Mayhap,
When ye come on the Gap,
Ye'll be seein' a lass
On this side o' the pass
That'll ax for the toll.
She's a dacint good soul,
Though the eyes of her twinkle so droll.
Well, ye'll pay her the tax
An' ye'll wink an' ye'll ax:
"Would ye marry young Barney Kehoe?"—
'Tis a bit of a joke
That the folk love to poke
At the lass o' the Gap o' Dunloe.

An' it's where, whin ye've done wid Dunloe,
Will ye go?

Ye'll be wise to come back
By this very same thrack,
Fur there's little that's back o' Dunloe—

There is so.

Sure, the hills are so bare
There's no scenery there
Like the kind that ye find
On this side, d'ye mind?
So I'll watch for the day
Whin ye're passin' this way,
Jist to hear what the lass had to say,
Whin she made her reply
To the wink o' yer eye
An' yer joke at the Gap o' Dunloe—

Is it who may I be?
Ye'll find me, d'ye see,
If ye'll ax for young Barney Kehoe.

LEIGH WOODS NEAR
BRISTOL TOWN

LEIGH Woods! and but a thought's flight from the ocean!
Seemed time and space between
As though they had not been;
As though a wave of mine own soul's emotion,
O'erwhelming my dazed senses in the smoke
And thunder of its cresting, here had broke
And cast me up beneath this English oak.
Behind me lay the Avon-riven towns,
Clouding with busy fires the autumn morning;
But, O! the light of old romance adorning
Leigh Woods and Durdham Downs!

An English wood! Not here, were mine the choosing,
Would my foot first have trod
The Old World's storied sod;
For here should rise ancestral wrongs,
transfusing

Into my blood their heart-sepulchred teen.
Yet here were flow'ring fields and woods
as green,
Mayhap, as those wherein I would have been;
And leafy lanes as thronged with twinkling wings.
The birds were singing here, not piping merely,
Green-cloistered choirs intoning sweetly, clearly,
Of love, the crown of things.

Old passions melted in the holier fire
Of Nature's motherhood;
And o'er that English wood,
On finer air my soul soared high and higher.
Trees, rocks, all senseless objects, great and small,
All living things that walk or fly or crawl—
Atoms of earth—I saw and loved them
all!
Aye! rose I even to Heav'n's own parapet,
On the strong wings of that unbridled rapture

Which, knowing once, I never shall recapture—
But can no more forget.

O! could I catch again and hold forever
The ecstasy, the power,
Of that one fleeting hour,
Peace and the soul should never more dissever.

Forever through God's ether to be swirled,
And momently see Heaven's blue veils unfurled,

My song a silvern trumpet to the world!
Leigh Woods! could I revive your spell
again,

My soul would chant such music to the spirit,
The list'ning world, that could not choose but hear it,
Would thrill as I did then.

Bristol, England, September 22, 1910.

“GRIM humorist!” I’d write upon his stone;
“Great poet? Aye, but still a child of wit,
And martyr to his judges’ lack of it.
When first his mimic mintings rare were shown,
Befooled, they praised them, but, the fraud
made known,
They spurned his Rowley coinage, bit by bit.
‘No silver this,’ they cried, ‘but counterfeit!’
Not seeing it was gold and all his own.

“Oh! dear deceiver, child of mystery!
How well to the last hour he played the game,
And falsely strong in his adversity,
Hid his young honor in a cloud of shame.
And last, the play’s meet epilogue we see:
Death—but dissembled by undying fame!”

Bristol, England, September, 1910.

FAIR was the sky and calm the sea,
 Aye, calmer than this bosom,
When first upon my vision broke
 The Skelligs, wild and gruesome.
As slow the rugged coast-line rose
 Above the sunlit ocean,
O! bitter was the fight I waged
 To still my heart's commotion.
Scion of exiles, home again!
 Each rock and tree and steeple
Encircled by my eager glass
 Brought greetings from my people.
My kindly shipmates little guessed—
 So gay I seemed and merry—
What tears were bubbling in my breast
 For the holy hills of Kerry.

So all day long I kept the deck,
 And fed my soul with gazing
On cliffs and bays and over all
 The hills their green crowns raising.
When through the dusk the ship sailed on
 And found her English haven,

At dawn, where Bristol Channel takes
The waters of the Avon,
To me the Saxon tyrants came,
But kindlier than the olden,
And loaded me with captive chains.
Though here those chains were golden,
And royal hospitality
Made every moment merry,
My heart was where my people lie
Among the hills of Kerry!

* * * * *

O! calm again were sea and sky.
The good ship, homeward turning,
Bore with her one whose heart was sore
With unrequited yearning.
Again I watched the Kerry coast,
Behind our white wake falling;
The Sidhe were on those fading hills!
I know; I heard them calling.
Then rose the answering sea in wrath,
The sky grew gray above it,
The storm broke and the shuddering ship
Quaked in the clutches of it.
And like the Ancient Mariner,
Whose sin no seas could bury,
I knew what spirits shook our keel—
The wild, wild Sidhe of Kerry!

Laugh not to scorn this tale of mine
As some wild dreamer's notion;
I read reproach in every thing
That tracked me o'er the ocean.
The angry sea that snatched at me,
The winds at night that jeered me,
The very gull that screamed o'erhead
And fled as though it feared me;
I was the plague upon the ship
That made her groan and shiver
Through toil of seven days and nights
To reach this peaceful river.
So now I swear: No more for me
The ocean-girdling ferry;
No more for me, unless it be
To tread the hills of Kerry!

MOTHER and wife to me,
Fostering Earth!

Sum of all life to me,
Birth to rebirth;

Mother, at urge of the sun-god who bore me,
Wife, whose cool bosom at last shall swell
o'er me,

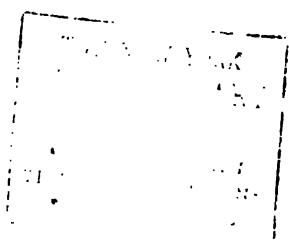

Ever and ever my heart shall be thine.
Ah! but one season brings thy heart the nearest,
When to my loving thy bosom thou barest.
Then thou art mine.

Summer brings many men
Singing thy praise,
But are there any when
Chill are the days?

Now, when thy robes are but tatters and patches,
Sport of the winds in the bitter night watches,
Stronger and truer my heart beats to thine.

My breast to thine and the deep sky our cover,
Quiet and peace for the loved and the lover—
Now thou art mine!

THE MAGIC APPLE

“A THING of beauty is a joy forever.”
Though years becloud it, never may they sever
Its lovely essence utterly from earth;
Never a joy was born but hath rebirth.
There was a sunset lost, long, long ago,
An autumn sunset seen through orchard boughs.
A boy’s eye brightening in the amber glow
Gave to his mind no more of it to house
For the delight of manhood’s pensive days
Than the bare memory of time and place;
So nigh forgot, it seemed
As something he had dreamed.
Yet now the man, before whose boyish ken
The glory melted on the evening breeze,
Knows it lived on, for he hath found again
His long-lost sunset of the orchard trees.
A penny tribute to a swarthy vendor Hath filled for me this city street with splendor.
A meagre apple! yet its crushed pulp drips
A long-forgotten savor on my lips,

A rare, faint essence tasted once before,
But only once; and suddenly I find
The honeyed gush hath loosed a long-locked door,
And all the olden splendor floods my mind.
A care-free lad I stand,
An apple in my hand,
And watch the amber glory grow and wane.
I feel upon my cheek the evening breeze.
Joy lives forever! I have found again
My long-lost sunset of the orchard trees!

SHE called me "Jack!" But instantly
She blushed as red as red could be,
And bit her lip, as if to show
She meant not to have spoken so;
All which I was not slow to see.

'Twas something of a shock to me;
I felt no very great degree
Of palpitating joy, although
She called me "Jack."

It was, indeed, a mystery
Until I thought of John Supplee.
Was he her "Jack," I'd like to know?
You see, my given name is "Joe."
The absent-minded, fickle She—
She called me "Jack!"

He tak' an' try for readin' eet!

But theeng dat tak' hees job away
Ees dees dat happen yestaday:
Som' lady drop from passin' car,
Right een da streeta where we are,
Beeg boncha flower dat's halfa dead,
But pretta, yallow, white an' red—
You know dees flower weeth bushy head?
Chreesanthew'at? Ah! yes, dat's eet—
Wal, Joe he see dem een da street
An' run an' grab dem uppa queeck,
An' den he tak' dem back an' steeck
Dem up on top da dirla pile,
An' lay dem out een soocha style
An' feex dem weeth so fina care,
You theenk for sure dey growin' dere!
An' pretta soon dey catch da eye
Of evra wan dat's passin' by.
Eh? Sure dey looka pretta so,
But seence eet ees no work, you know,

O C H!

O CH! the year is gettin' gray,
Like a man that's had his day,
Waitin', jisht, to fade away
An' none to pity.
Och! the way the winds do blow!
Little ease o' them ye'll know,
Whether in the fields ye go
Or in the city.

Och! how fasht the leaves do fall!
Reekin' fires an' smoky pall—
Och! 'tis like a funeral,
So cold an' sober.
Och! the stillness ev'rywhere!
Och! there's witches in the air!
Och! the smell o' death that's there!
Och! Och-tober!

THE GOLDEN GIRL

R^ED hair!
Isn't it quare?

Once on a time I'd do nothin' but jeer at it.
Now, faith,
Look at me teeth,
See how I show them an' growl when you sneer at it.

Brown eyes?
"Muddy wid lies,"
"Dull an' deceitful," I once was decidin' them;
But—whack!—
Yours will go black
Under me fist now, if you'd be deridin' them.

What's more,
Freckles galore
Made a complexion the worst I could deem of it;
But now—
You must allow
They give a touch o' pure gold to cream of it.

Some girls
Flaunt the red curls,
But it is blue eyes inundher that gaze at ye;
Some own
Freckles alone—
Let them be oglin' as much as they pl'asc at ye.

One charm
Needn't alarm;
Fear not the lass who is only unfoldin' one;
But she Blessed wid all three—
Like my own Nora—Och! She is the golden one.

LET this, Labor's Sabbath-day,
Be a day of pleasure.
Toll no bells and nothing play
But a jolly measure.
Labor's very self is prayer,
Serious and holy;
So its holiday should wear
Naught of melancholy.

Sure, no temple walls should irk
Labor's gala spirit,
Whose least sounds of daily work
Soar to Heaven or near it.
We could build no fitting fane
Dedicate to Labor,
Till the World shall learn again
Love of God and neighbor;
As, of old, the pure of heart
(You have heard the story)
Reared Cathedral walls at Chartres,
Still its greatest glory.
Prince and peasant, belle and wench,
Toiling in all weather,

Hauled the stone and dug the trench,
Praising God together.

Those who set their hates aside
Only were selected;
And who would not were denied
And their gifts rejected.

Love endureth over art,
Art is transitory,
But the twain combined at Chartres
Blossomed into glory.

Till the World shall strive again
Thus for God and neighbor,
We shall rear no fitting fane
Dedicate to Labor:

So let Labor's Sabbath-day
Be a day of pleasure.

Toll no bells and nothing play
But a jolly measure.

Labor's very self is prayer,
Serious and holy;
So its holiday should wear
Naught of melancholy.

A CHILD'S CHRISTMAS
SONG

LORD, I'm just a little boy,
Born one day like You,
And I've got a mother dear
 And a birthday, too.
But my birthday comes in spring,
 When the days are long,
And the robin in the tree
 Wakens me with song.
Since the birds are all away,
 Lord, when You are born,
Let Your angels waken me
 On Your birthday morn.

Lord, I'm just a little boy,
 Hidden in the night;
Let Your angels spy me out
 Long before it's light.
I would be the first to wake
 And the first to raise
In this quiet house of ours
 Songs of love and praise.

You shall hear me first, dear Lord,
Blow my Christmas horn;
Let Your angels waken me
On Your birthday morn.

You’ve no right to kiss me so;
This is not the mistletoe,
That has berries white as snow;
These are red,” said Molly.
“This is not the mistletoe,
It is merely holly.”

“This must be the mistletoe,
Though it looks like holly,
Though the berry’s red,” said Joe,
“This must be the mistletoe.
Every berry’s blushed to know
’Twas not fair as Molly.
This must be the mistletoe,
Though it looks like holly.”

THERE was a Star whose light,
 Mystical and holy,
Shone through the quiet night
 O'er a stable lowly.
Sing praise to God on high!
 And rejoice that He
Thus should beatify
 Humble poverty.

A Merrie Christmas, Gentlefolk!
 And may your wealth and pride
Be mindful of the humble ones
 This blessed Christmastide.

There was a Little Child,
 Innocent and holy,
Born of the Virgin mild
 In that stable lowly.
Sing praise to God, who gave Unto you and me
Such Gift our souls to save!
 Oh! the Charity!

A Merrie Christmas, Gentlefolk!
And may your wealth and pride
Be mindful of the humble ones
This blessed Christmastide.

SONG OF THE CHRIST-MAS TREE

ONCE out of midnight sweet with mystery
The wonder of all wonders came to be;
So shall the dawn a marvel make of me.
For when in all my beauty I am born
In the first glimmer of the Christmas morn,
Angels of innocence in mortal guise
Shall look upon me with their faith-big eyes;
And, looking, see
A greater thing in me
Than the bare figure of a tree.
Behold! in every limb
I thrill with praise of Him
For whom I stand in memory.

Kings of the East and wise men three there were
Who brought to Him rare frankincense and myrrh.
So do my balsamed branches when they stir
In the warm airs that move about this room,
And render forth their homage in perfume.

Lift up your hearts anew, O! care-worn men,
Look up with glad, believing eyes again;
And, looking, see
A greater thing in me
Than the bare figure of a tree.
Behold! in every limb
I thrill with praise of Him
For whom I stand in memory.

When he'd laid by his coat an' had hung up his hat,

An' had shuffled away to a corner an' sat
Wid his stick twixt his knees an' his han's on the crook,

'Twas himsel', an' no less, had the “natural look.”

For the folk o' the parish were wont to declare

Ne'er a wake a success unless Matt'ew was there.

“ ‘Tis a sorrowful world,” he leaned over an’ said
To the man by his side, wid a shake of his head;
“There’s so much in it now that’s deceitful
an’ wrong,
‘Tis a blessin’ our fri’nd here was took while he’s young.”
“He was siventy-five lasht July,” said the man,
“An’ I doubt if ye’re more than that,
Misther Moran.”
Wid a tap o’ the end of his stick on the floor, “Sure, a man is as ould as he feels—an’ no more!”
Said ould Matt’ew Moran.

“Och! the breed o’ men found in these days!
’Tis a crime!
Sure, they’re not the strong stuff that was raised in my time.
Who’s the nixt wan to go? If ye’ll jisht look around,

Ye'll find manny a sickly wan here, I'll be bound.

There's no life in thim now like the lads in my day."

So he sat in his chair an'jisht muttered away,
While the neighbors came in an' passed out
o' the door

In a stiddy procession. Ten minyits or more Since the ould man had spoken, the man by his side

Found him sittin', asleep, wid his mouth open wide.

Undisturbed in his corner they let him dream on

Till the lasht o' the neighborly mourners was gone.

"I've been noddin'," sez he, as he rose to his feet;

"Och! the houses these days are jisht murthered wid heat,"

Growled ould Matt'ew Moran.

"There's so much in the world that's deceitful an' wrong,"

Said ould Matt'ew Moran,

“ 'Tis a blessin' indeed to be took whin ye're young,
Like that dacint young man.
Well, there's wan gone to rest,
An' it's all for the best,”
Said ould Matt'ew Moran.

YOU like to go to Italy,
You weesh for veesit Roma?
All right, you com' an' seet weeth me
To-night w'en I am homa.
Dough mebbe so da weentra storm
Outside ees nevva quiet,
Da keetchen fire weell be warm
While we are seettin' by it;
An' eef so be you close your eyes
You easy can pretanda
You are beneath da sunny skies
Dat smile upon my landa.
An' pretta soon, so sweet, so clear,
W'en evratheeng ees steel, O!
W'at pretta song ees dees you hear?
Il grillo, O! il grillo!

Ha! nevva mind da snow,
An' how da weend ees blow:
"Hoo-woo! hoo-woo! hoo-wee!"
For here eet's warm, an', O!
Il grillo seenga so:
"Cher-ree! cher-ree! cher-ree!"

How com's he to dees colda clime
To seeng so far from homa?
I catch heem manny, manny time.
W'en I am boy een Roma.
I catch heem een da fields an' tak'
Heem back eento da ceety,
Where reecha peopla try to mak'
Deir gardens fine an' pritty.
Dey are so glad for hear heem seeng
Dey no can gat too manny,
An' so for evra wan I breeng
Dey geeva me a penny.
Dough here hees song ees justa same,
Hees name I no can speak eet—
Eh? w'at you call hees Anglaice name?
Ah! "creecket," yes, "da creecket."

'Sh! nevva mind da snow,
An' how da weend ees blow:
"Hoo-woo! hoo-woo! hoo-wee!"
For here eet's warm, an', O!
Il grillo seenga so:
"Cher-ree! cher-ree! cher-ree!"

THE ONE THING LACKING

O H! my, signor, eet eesa true
Dere's jus' wan theeng I envy you;
Eef I was borna 'Merican,
I sure would be da happy man.

You see, dere ees a girl I know
Dat's name' Bianca D'Angelo;
Italian, of course, but she
Com' verra yo'ng from Italy.
She's pretta girl an' verra bright,
An' she can speak an' read an' write
Dees Anglaice jus' so good as you;
An' alla time she's crazy, too,
For readin' books dat tal you of
All kinda peopla makin' love;
An' som'times I am workin' near
An' justa can'ta halp but hear.
Wal, w'en she's readin' so wan day,
She stop an' looka far away,
Den to da girl nex' door she say:
"Da man I gona love mus' be
Da handsomest I evva see.
He mus' be brave an' fulla fun,

Yat strong for maka playnta mon';
An' he mus' have good disposeesh'
An' geeve me evratheeng I weesh.
An' w'en dees pretta hero com'
For mak' me queen of all hees home,
All common peopla een da land
Mus' standa' 'round an' clap da hand
Baycause he ees so fine an' grand!
He mus' be all dese theengs—an' he True borna 'Merican mus' be."

Eet's jus' dose last few word, you see,
Dat's spoolin' evratheeng for me!
Eef I was borna 'Merican,
I sure would be da happy man.

ES fat Dootch barber gotta shop
T'ree door from deesa bootblack stan',
An' w'en he see da trade I gat
 He try for bust me eef he can,
An' so he geeeve outside hees shop
 A chair for neegger bootblack man.

You theenk dat I am feela bad
For see heem gat som' trade I had?
 Ah ! no, my frand,
 I mak' pretand
To smile an' seeng, I am so glad.

Firs' theeng you know ees Meester Smeeth
 Dat use' for gat hees shine from me,
He stop for shine from neegger man.
 I mak' pretand I do not see,
But neegger man he mak' da face
 An' ees so glad as he can be.

You theenk dat I am feela bad
For see heem gat dees trade I had?
 Ah ! no, my frand,
 I mak' pretand
To smile an' seeng, I am so glad.

Nex' day w'en comesa Meester Smeeth,
I say, "Good-morna" justa same.
So jus' baycause I am polite
Eet mak'sa Meester Smeeth ashame'.
So he com' back; so evra wan
Ees com' back where dey always came!

Da neegger man ees gatta mad,
An' growl an' swear; he feel so bad.
But I, my frand,
I mak' pretand
I do not see—but I am glad.

A N I D Y L L O F O L D J O Y S

WHY shouldn't I speak of our exploit that morning out at the farm?
Undignified? What if it was, Judge? We didn't do any great harm;
And nobody saw us, that's certain, for the rest of the folks were asleep,
And—well—O! well, Judge, it's a story and really too good to keep.
Besides, you're to blame for it all, Judge,
for you must admit it was you Suggested the thing; and I'm certain I'd never have gone if you two,
Yes, you and your crony, the Colonel, hadn't tapped at my bedroom door, Disturbing my peaceful slumber at the ridiculous hour of four.
The "best time to fish," you assured us, and hopefully led us away
Up over the hills that were faintly predicting the coming of day,
And so, to the lake in the hollow, greenrimmed by its deep-wooded shores,

And then, when we got in the boat, Judge,
with you hard at work with the oars,
We found you'd forgotten the bait—Eh?
What nonsense! Of course, it was you.
We brought your fault home at the time,
Judge, and made you acknowledge it, too.

O! well, let it pass. Then the Colonel benignly remarked that although Our fishing was off for that morning, we ought to have something to show;
We shouldn't go home empty-handed, he said, and suggested the joys
Of hunting those silly pond-lilies, like so many Sunday school boys.
You fell into line with the notion and started to row us in-shore,
And then we discovered that spring-board
we never had noticed before.
We gazed at the board and each other, and gazed at the spring-board again;
You trailed one fat hand in the water and twiddled your fingers—and then
You gave us the two-fingered signal that no fellow ever forgets.

We looked and we grinned at each other and whispered in chorus: "Let's!"
There wasn't a soul there to see us, so we just beached the boat with a rush
And fell to discarding our garments in the leafy underbrush.
And I was first in—what? Nonsense! All right, we'll say you were the first,
But, say, Judge, your plunge from that spring-board was positively the worst.
I know; you just thought you'd be pretty and dove too high and too straight, Fetched bottom, and came up snorting and rubbing your shiny pate.
I had to laugh so at the Colonel—Ungainly?
Yes, wasn't he, though?
My dive? Well, it would have been graceful if you hadn't hurried me so.
But, say, when you ducked the poor Colonel,
I thought that was shabby of you,
And you sixty-four last December and he only sixty-two!
It served you right, too, that you had to
"chaw beef" when you started to dress.
What? Me? Why, I didn't do that, Judge;
that trick was the Colonel's, I guess.

But wasn't it great, though? And didn't you thrill when your body shot in,
With nothing 'twixt you and the water, just nothing at all but your skin?
We'd come to this lake rather often and bathed in the full light of day,
With throngs of those summer sojourners who fritter their time in that way;
But then there were thick bathing garments to cumber us, body and limb,
And that sort of thing's but a "bath," Judge,
but this was a regular "swim"!
And then, walking back to the farmhouse,
with the rising sun in your face,
Just gilding the hilltops with glory, you thrilled with a newly-found grace
That wakened a host of sweet memories these long years forgotten, and then—Say, Judge, if we go back next summer, I dare you to do it again!

F I N E R C L A Y

SURE, I used to think a pipe was the glory of a man,
Troth I did then, Mary Ann.
Long before my years were ripe (wid a rattle in one han')
I would smoke one, Mary Ann.
An', thinks I, there's nothin' gives
To the grandest man that lives
Such a finish, ye may say;
An' it's well I mind the way
That it nearly finished me.
But I wouldn't let it be Till I liked it, Mary Ann.

Then I found an ould dhudeen was a comfort to a man,
An' none betther, Mary Ann;
For wid that my teeth between, if I'd work to do or plan,
It was aisy, Mary Ann.
An' the more I smoked my clay,
All the more I worked away;
An' my thoughts were keen an' long

When the pipe was goin' strong.
For the two of us, ye see,
Were just suited to a "t"
Wid each other, Mary Ann.

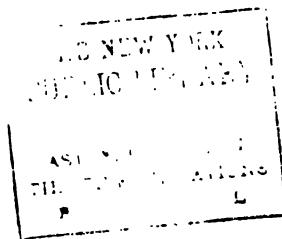

So the pipe became my all, an' meself, a lonely man,
Grew to love it, Mary Ann.
But there's changes do befall that ye never un'erstan';
Faith, they do, then, Mary Ann.
An' to-night there's somethin' wrong;
For I've sat here thinkin' long,
But my thoughts an' pipe don't fit,
For I cannot keep it lit.
What I'm tellin' ye is true,
An' the throuble, dear, is you—
Sure, it's jealous, Mary Ann!

THE CHRISTMAS READ-
ING

THE herald winds of Christmas sleep
High-cradled on the wooded steep.
The far stars only are a-thrill
With life; the night is cold and still.
Come, gather 'round the ingle-nook
And from its shelf take down the book
Wherein the master's genius drew
Those pictures old, but ever new;
Whose "Christmas Carol's" deathless chime
Beats down the envious touch of time.
Here let the children sit, and there
Beneath the lamp's light place thy chair.
Take, thou, the book, O! golden voice,
And read the pages of thy choice.
Tell us of Scrooge and Marley's ghost,
Of all our favorites old; but most,
Tell us with tenderness of him
We laugh and weep with—Tiny Tim.
Call thou the soul to every face
About thee in this holy place.

We shall not be ashamed at all
For frank, sweet tears you cause to fall;
But fervently, with eyelids dim
And hearts attuned to Tiny Tim,
We'll quote his words when you have done,
And say, "God bless us, every one!"
